I. ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A rigid backpack that includes at least one compartment and can include an upper compartment (103) that is attached to a lower compartment (101) is described. A top surface (105) of the lower compartment (101) is complementary to a bottom surface (107) of the upper compartment (103) such that the upper compartment (103) stacks on and attaches to the lower compartment (101). A waist strap (123) is attached to the lower compartment (101). Similarly, a right should strap (127) and a left shoulder strap (129) are attached to upper compartment (103).